

krewe of king charlie "the duck march part quatre" rouleaux

Students saw purple, yellow, and green during Mardi Gras season this year. The Student Government Association and Bear Trackers united with an extravagant parade down College Drive. The parade's theme was "Quacks on Parade, Part Quatre" with E.J. Bryan and Addie Boone designated as the king and queen of the festival. Not a single strand of beads was left abandoned in the road after the Bears cheerfully gathered them after the festivities.

Pat Young, Karinlee Brister, and Lauren Woodworth organized the traditional celebration and were successful in bonding the campus residents. Those who were either involved in the organization or simply there to enjoy the event had a blast, and smiles could be seen on every face that day. The campus was content with its personal Mardi Gras festival, and everyone agreed that it was a well-deserved celebration.

by Madison VanNess

above: Madison VanNess, Morgan Lawrence, and Macy Booty throw ducks to the crowd.